VOLUME XXX.

MT. STERLING, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1920.

NUMBER 9

Mt. Sterling Woman Going to Conference

Mrs. Robert H. Winn, of Mt. Sterling, will attend a conference of the alumnae at Wellesley College on November 17 to 19, at which the needs of the college will be studied and discussed. Delegates to the conference have been appointed by President Ellen F. Pendleton from all parts of the country. These will meet with members of the graduate council, which holds a special meeting at this time.

The delegates will live the life of undergraduates again, staying at the college dormitories, some of them in their old rooms, eating traditional Wellesley food, and keeping undergraduate hours. They will attend classes, hear lectures and visit all the buildings in which they used to reside. One evening the undergraduates will entertain the visitors with a typical "Barnswallows" play. The conference will end with a luncheon with speeches by prominent men and women.

Wellesley has never been able to make up the losses caused by the fire of 1914 which destroyed College Hall, ruining the equipment of several departments, and forcing them to take refuge in temporary buildings, where they are still being housed. Wellesley's growth to its present enrollment of 1,545, making it the second largest women's college in the country, also makes the housing situation acute. The delegates will be asked to make a special study of these conditions and to decide means for remedying the most pressing ones.

CENTRE VS. KENTUCKY

The football championship of Kentucky will be decided at Lexington Saturday when the Centre College Colonels meet the University of Kentucky Wildcats on Stoll field. Odds are all in favor of the Colonels, but it is predicted by many that the score will not be a one-sided one. Quite a number of lovers of the sport will attend the game from this city.

Anita Stewart Risks Life in Blazing Barn

One of the thrilling scenes of "In Old Kentucky," the First National big special feature with Anita Stewart starring, which will be shown at the Tabb Theatre Tuesday, November 16th, is where Miss Stewart rushes into a burning barn to save a thoroughbred racer from the flames. A barn was purchased for this purpose and was burned to the ground.

Miss Stewart, as Madge Brierly, the little mountain girl, has been visiting in a near-by city. She is very much in love with the young master of the estate, but has been told by a jealous woman that the young man is playing with her heart. She slips quietly out of the big house to return to her mountain home. But as she leaves the grounds she sees that the barn is on fire.

She knows that a fine thoroughbred race horse is stabled in the barn, and that the horse is a favorite for the stakes in the great Kentucky Handicap, which race soon is to be run.

Others from the house rush out as the flames mount up, but no one dares to enter the stable, which is enveloped in smoke and flame.

Miss Stewart actually rushes into the barn and finally coaxes the horse to follow her out of the stable. The fire and smoke is so thick that she can hardly be seen through the doorway, but she finally emerges, half suffocated.

Her hair was singed in the taking of the scene, and she was nearly smothered by the smoke, but she suffered no serious injury.

The barn of dry boards and filled with hay then quickly burns to the ground and falls into ruins. It is a brilliant fire spectacle and carries an intense thrill.

MISS MARY SWEENEY LEAVES UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

Advocate Installs Miller Feeder and Other Labor-Saving Equipment

The Advocate has just added to its already modern plant a Miller Feeder, a device which completely does away with press feeders and does its work automatically. The machine is the last word in press-room efficiency and performs its work in a perfect manner, something that is impossible when done by human hands. It not only does its work correctly, but it does it much faster than a feeder can possibly perform the same work. In addition to the feeder we have recently installed a motor-driven saw-trimmer, which is a unique little machine in itself and a big labor-saver. A complete new line of job type has been purchased and is now being put into use.

With this additional equipment

we are prepared to handle ALL PRINTING ORDERS in a prompt and up-to-date manner and at a price as low as is consistent with good workmanship.

In mentioning the rapidity in which The Advocate is forging to the front we give the following facts with pride: The Advocate installed the first Linotype in this city, the first folding machine, the first stereotyping outfit, the first motor saw, the first feeder, and is the only shop in the city equipped with the latter three.

The public is cordially invited to come in and see these new devices in operation and inspect one of the best equipped newspaper and job printing offices in the state.

Jealous Husband Kills Neighbor in Lexington

Alleged attentions to Mrs. Bert Tudor, wife of a carpenter, cost Robert Haney, 32, concrete worker, his life Tuesday. Tudor shot and killed Haney at 7:30 o'clock in front of the Tudor home following an altercation in which, according to Tudor, Haney cursed him and reached into his hip pocket for a pistol.

"He had been violating my home," Tudor said after the shooting. "He would come to my house while I was away and talk to my wife. I got tired of it and was unable to work. I warned him about half a dozen times to stay away. He told me he loved my wife better than I did."

Tudor said his last warning to Haney was two weeks ago and he asserted that Haney promised to stay away from his home. The Tudors have been married eight years and have two children, 4 and 6 years old.

"He shot the man down like a dog," Mrs. Tudor said at her home. She said she had talked to Haney and that times during last summer he would come into the house. Since her husband had asked Haney not to come to their home he had stayed away, Mrs. Tudor said. "My husband had no cause to be jealous," she added.

When asked if he was sorry for his act, Tudor asked: "If a man broke up your home, would you be sorry?"

Following the shooting Tudor put away the shotgun which he had used, walked down town and gave himself up. He was taken to police headquarters, where a charge of murder was placed against him.

Tom Grubbs Is Admitted to Bar

Tom Grubbs, son of Hon. and Mrs. C. D. Grubbs, of this city, was admitted to the bar Saturday and will practice law with his father. Mr. Grubbs is a recent graduate of the law department of the University of Kentucky and is said to possess one of the brightest minds of any young man that has been admitted to the bar in Mt. Sterling in many years. During the past season he was on the payroll of the New York Giants baseball club and is expected to make good as one of their regular twirlers the coming spring. We predict for Mr. Grubbs a lucrative practice from the start, and feel confident he will look after the interests of his clients to the best possible advantage.

GRUBBS RETIRES FROM HARDWARE BUSINESS

J. E. Grubbs, formerly of this city, has retired from the firm of Grubbs, Day & McCormick, Winchester, hardware and implement dealers, and the business in the future will be conducted by Messrs. W. L. Day and F. A. McCormick. Mr. Grubbs states that he has no definite plans for the future.

The Advocate, twice a week.

Revival Meeting at The Baptist Church

The audience yesterday afternoon was fine and the auditorium was well filled at night. The services are delightfully instructive and the person who fails to get in line and attend throughout the entire meeting is going to miss much and to regret the missing of it. The piano furnished by the E. C. Christian Music Co., Lexington, with J. H. Brown local representative, under the musical touch of Mrs. J. W. Burbridge, the electric organ pealing forth in its sweetest and enchanting tones, with Miss Louise Orear as organist, and the choir led by Prof. Elsey, together with his matchless and inspiring solos, are worth far more to saint and sinner than the keeping open of trade doors, in order to unstable shekels. The use of one is only for three score and ten years, and the reserve of the other is as lasting as eternity. This is a community service, in which all may have a part, and to which everyone and especially the unsaved, young and old, have a cordial invitation and will receive a most hearty welcome.

RESIDENCE FOR SALE

Verne Jones Case Now Being Heard

The case of the Commonwealth against Verne Jones, charged with the killing of Woodson Henry in this city several weeks ago is now being heard before Judge H. R. Prewitt, in court here. A jury was secured this morning and the case is progressing rapidly. John Booth, the only eyewitness to the affair, gave his testimony today, as did Pete Zervas, proprietor of the restaurant in which the killing took place. George Eustis, the undertaker, who took charge of Henry's body, also testified. The attorneys for the defense are C. H. Nesbitt and Charles D. Grubbs, and assisting Attorney W. C. Hamilton in the prosecution are Judge Robert H. Winn, John Judy and W. B. White.

IN OLD KENTUCKY

A rare treat is in store for Mt. Sterling people, who will have the opportunity on Tuesday, at the Tabb of witnessing "In Old Kentucky," as directed by Marshall Nielan, and played by beautiful Anita Stewart. This is one of the best pictures ever shown here, and Manager Small, always on the alert to secure the best the screen market affords, assures his patrons that this is a picture well worth the price, and that it is one that no true Kentuckian can afford to miss.

DYKE DUTY ILL

Dyke Duty, who has been ill for the past week, was taken considerably worse yesterday and was rushed to the hospital in Winchester for special treatment. He has developed typhoid fever and is under the care of two nurses. The family and friends of this popular young man are greatly alarmed over his condition.

Don't forget, "In Old Kentucky," at the Tabb Tuesday, matinee and night.

92 YEARS OLD LAST JUNE

Buford Boone was in Winchester Tuesday to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Lucy Guy. Mrs. Guy was 92 years old last June and is quite sick, due to the infirmities of age.
